

7.2.1 Describe at least two institutional best practices (word limit: 1500 words)

Best Practice 1

Title of the Practice: Coffee with Corporates

The Context:

With technological developments happening in the industry the expectations from skilled human resource are rapidly changing. The toughest job professional and management education sector has these days is to bridge the gap between industry and academics. Modern business environment is complicated and needs lot of skills and abilities to fit in to it. Global Business School and Research Centre is taking tremendous efforts to inculcate the extant industry requirements in the curriculum. Coffee with corporates is an initiative through which the institute invites experts from various industries and different domains. Continuous communication with the industry help our students and faculties to stay up to date with required skills.

The Practice:

Coffee with Corporates offers the platform to students to interact one to one with industry experts. Whenever industry delegates visit the institute, few Selective students get the opportunity to assemble with the delegates at a round table space, students share their opinions and ask their queries in this session. Every time this astonishing opportunity is given to different fifteen students. Students are selected based upon their interested field with the expertise of industry experts. GBSRC regularly conducts such a meeting with industry experts to provide the insights of industry culture and requirements. Students get an opportunity to interact with the leaders from the industry and they get exposed to treasured experiences shared by the industry experts. Industry experts from various business areas namely human resource management, marketing, supply chain and operations, finance, agribusiness, International business management etc. interact with students to give them the true insights.

Evidence of success:

One-to-one interactions with industry experts have facilitated students to comprehend the current industry requirements, work ethics, and expectations from them when they enter the market. These interactions have helped our students to cope up with the recruitment drives, analysing their lacuna which can act as a great hurdle to get placed in their dream company. Students are delighted in these sessions when guests shared the real experiences from various fields and discussed the up-gradation required in student's skills to become a part of modern markets.

Event: Coffee with the Corporates “How to manage your stress”

Date: 04th September 2019

Description: An interactive session titled “Coffee with the Corporates” was organized for the students of GBSRC on Wednesday, 04th September 2019. Mr. Byoung Gil Parkwas, interacted with the students in the board room. 8 students were present for the session.

He is the director of International Mind Education Institute, Nepal and is a licensed mind education specialist for IMEI, South Korea. The session was quite interesting as he communicated in Korean and it was translated by the person who accompanied him. The session was based on stress management, peer pressure, anxiety and how to overcome the hardships. The hard facts of how to students are committing suicide due to the stress of academics and love affairs were painfully highlighted. He said - you don't need to avoid the stress, but to overcome it. Don't avoid hardships, collide with them is the mantra to sail through life's turbulences. He explained using the example of swimming: how on the same water one can be happy and cheerful, how one person can out of fear drown and how the other enthusiastic human can surf. It signifies even when water is calm, people can drown. Thus, water is then not the problem but the mindset plays a huge part in this.

He covered the following points

- He discussed and emphasized how we all should change for better and come above the surface of the water not just in a pool or a sea but in life as well.
- He imparted the importance of how good mentors in life take us to places.
- Mentors should be chosen from a young age and students need to abide by the path shown by them.
